MAKING WAVES IN EDUCATION

Florida Atlantic University is home to more than just a college degree. FAU's College of Education directs five University Schools, as well as K-12 Programs. Each school is home to experienced educators providing children an exceptional education. The schools and programs also provide FAU students with direct access to real world teaching scenarios.

At the Karen Slattery Educational Research Center for Child Development, from 3 months to 4-years old, unique methods of teaching allow FAU to build a better future.
